Unanswered Questions about ISIS

By Muhammad Razaq Shah

Green Zone is one of the many Hollywood movies showing the typical war zones. The soldiers become the heroes and the enemies the villains. They are driven with a single-minded goal, a sense of an ultimate victory, and of course, a glory. The enemies are evil, and they are always foolishly putting their trust in the idea that nothing good can ever come from them. If they ever get to live or to do something else, it is the beginning of their end. The whole region is in their hands. The more we live in such zones, the more we pay the price. As ISIS passes, the brutality, the systematic destruction, and the barbarism of these areas are even more devastating. Many of the innocent and uninvolved in the conflict are forced to suffer. It is a matter of human rights and needs to be addressed.

Politics is the Art of Governing

Politics is the science and art of establishing and maintaining authority, and government. It involves the process of making decisions and implementing policies that affect the lives of individuals and groups. Politics is about power, influence, and control. It is the process of making choices and decisions that can have significant consequences for people. Politics is not just about policies and laws, but also about the way in which these decisions are made and implemented. It is about the relationships and interactions between different groups and individuals. It is about the balance of power and the distribution of resources.

Street Harassment of Women Requires Hasty Action

The frequent tales of bloodshed, aggression, injuries, vindictive acts, repression and intimidation have made it clear that the society thrives for its very existence against multiple annulling forces. These evil social circumstances shape the entire society, making it suffer from the worst posible social violence forces, which they dominate, and endure. The notion of modernity, which is not a reality for women, is visible in the face of social violence and is not possible to do anything to make things better, to improve social conditions, and to bring them to a situation of order and justice. It is the responsibility of the government, the institution, and all social groups to work together to bring the society to a situation of justice and harmony.
