Violence—A Reason behind Criminal Tendency

By Dilawar Sereh

It is absolutely necessary to warn human beings to prevent different crimes, the foremost among which is the crime of violence. If human beings are not kept in check, crimes of violence and other different crimes are increasing day by day. People have been suffering from its negative consequences to a large extent. Violence is not an isolated phenomenon; it is a reflection of the negative characteristics of how human beings think, say, do and behave in their society. One of the main differences between human beings and animals is the difference in class. Human beings, by the title of the eco- nomical and social organization of their society, are divided into classes. Some classes are rich and some are poor. Only few people have access to most of the wealth in the society. These classes are called the higher strata and on the other hand there are destitutes who do not have even enough food to eat. This distinction is the result of a sort of inequality within the society, and is the root of so many social inequalities. Some of the problems of the poor class, are not contented with the way of their living and thus many people have turned into criminal behaviors. They have been forced to do illegal and immoral actions, because of their silly and busy life. This has led to an array of serious crimes. This indicates the importance of helping the poor class. However, this is not merely an economic problem, it is a psychological problem. Its existence is not only in some women’s rights

By Mohammad Rashed Sult

This just a ‘Women’s Day’ meant for the Afghans. It was an occasion for women to be recognized, respected and known. But the reality could not be said to be the same. The women are treated as if they were not important or a part of the society. In Afghanistan, violence is the main factor preventing women from exercising their rights and responsibilities. It is the main issue that prevents women from exercising their rights. Women are treated with contempt when they leave their husbands. In fact, it is a sad reality that violence is an everyday occurrence. It is often expressed by the use of force and physical abuse. In such cases, the women are treated with contempt and violence is dealt with by force. Women are treated with contempt and violence is dealt with by force.

This phenomenon is a result of the neglect of the society. The society does not care about women. It is a fact that women are not considered in the society. Men have more rights than women. Women are not considered in the society. Men have more rights than women. Women are treated with contempt and violence is dealt with by force.

Women are considered as second-class citizens in the society. They are not considered to be equal to men. Women are considered as second-class citizens in the society. They are not considered to be equal to men.

AN ISLAMABAD, Oct 20 (APP): The country is facing a critical shortage of doctors and medical staff, leading to an increase in the number of deaths.

The government has been struggling to provide adequate healthcare services to the people, particularly in rural and remote areas. The lack of doctors and medical staff has resulted in an inadequate number of diagnostic centers and hospitals.

The situation is particularly dire in rural areas where the population density is low. The government has acknowledged the urgent need for more doctors and medical staff to improve healthcare services.

The shortage of doctors and medical staff has also led to an increase in the number of patients waiting for consultation, treatment, and surgery. This has resulted in a significant burden on the healthcare system.

The government has announced plans to increase the number of medical colleges and training institutions to address the shortage of doctors and medical staff. However, the implementation of these plans is critical to improving the healthcare services in the country.

In conclusion, the shortage of doctors and medical staff is a serious issue that requires immediate attention from the government. The country needs to take urgent action to address this critical issue and improve healthcare services for all citizens.
