A New Era of China-Afghanistan Relations

By Abdiul Abdul Bahnani

With China's explicit interest in helping Afghanistan's peace effort, efforts are being made to turn the existing confrontation into a cooperative relationship between Kabul and Beijing. It was through the strengthening of bilateral friendship that the Afghan People's Democratic Republic of Afghanistan and the People's Republic of China established diplomatic relations on May 15, 1965. Over the past few decades, the two nations have weathered the storms of history and have cooperated closely. This is the time that the Chinese foreign minister once said: Together, we are capable of overcoming the challenges. The government of the People's Republic of China is willing to contribute its wisdom and strength to the cause of Afghan peace and development.

The government of Afghanistan under President Ashraf Ghani has also worked closely with Beijing to bring about a political solution to Afghanistan's internal contradictions. Since the beginning of 2019, the Chinese Foreign Ministry has been deeply involved in the Afghan peace negotiations. The government of Afghanistan and the People's Republic of China are determined to support the Afghan government and the Afghan people to play a leading role in the Afghan peace process. The Chinese government believes that the Afghan government and the Afghan people should have the right to choose their own development path, and in this case, the Chinese government is willing to play a positive role in the Afghan peace process. In particular, the Chinese government is willing to continue to support the Afghan government and the Afghan people to make every effort to achieve a peaceful solution. This is an important step in Afghanistan's efforts to achieve peace.

Governors and foreign envoys have expressed their support for the Afghan government and the Afghan people, and they strongly condemned the use of violence and the use of any form of intimidation to solve the problem. They all stressed that the Chinese government's position is shared by the Afghan government and the Afghan people.

The Afghan government and the Chinese government have a strong tradition of cooperation. The Chinese government has always been a strong supporter of the Afghan government and the Afghan people. The Chinese government has always been committed to helping the Afghan government and the Afghan people to achieve peace and development. The United Nations congestion policy is working in Pakistan, supported by the World Bank, which has made its contribution to the process of implementing the policy. The World Bank has played a very important role in fostering economic development in Pakistan, and has played a leading role in the implementation of the UN policy.

Pakistan's economy is facing significant challenges, and the government is working to address them. The country is facing a variety of economic and political challenges, including inflation, unemployment, and corruption. These challenges are contributing to a decline in the country's economic growth.

The government has taken steps to address these challenges, including implementing a structural adjustment program with the International Monetary Fund (IMF). This program aims to reduce inflation and improve the country's fiscal position.

The government has also taken steps to improve the country's infrastructure, including expanding access to electricity and water, and improving transportation infrastructure. These efforts are aimed at improving the country's business climate and creating jobs.

In addition, the government has taken steps to improve the country's education system. The government has increased spending on education, and has implemented a number of reforms to improve the quality of education.

Pakistan has also taken steps to improve its relations with its neighbors. The government has worked to improve relations with Afghanistan, and has taken steps to improve relations with India.

In conclusion, the United Nations congestion policy is working in Pakistan, and the government is working to address the country's economic and political challenges. The country is facing a number of challenges, but the government is working to improve the country's economic and political situation.
Iran President Assures Peace to UN, VN

SAANA - Iran's President Khatami said Friday that the country's border tensions with Iraq had diminished thanks to the recent rapprochement between the two countries.

In his address to the UN Security Council session, Khatami said the rapprochement was the result of the recent dialogue between the leaders of the two countries which had led to the establishment of the joint committee on both sides.

Khatami added that the meeting of the two countries' foreign ministers in New York would be held next month to discuss the issues of common interest.

Iran's military strategy is to reduce tensions and to promote peace and stability in the region, Khatami said.

The President also said that Iran was ready to cooperate with the UN in all fields and to support the UN's efforts to maintain international peace and security.

Khatami added that Iran was also ready to contribute to the resolution of the Palestinian question and to support the efforts of the UN and other international organizations to achieve a just and lasting peace in the region.

Protest Held Outside Parliament for Passengers' Release

KABUL. A number of protesters on Saturday blocked the way leading to parliament house, demanding the release of 35 passengers kidnapped two months ago from Kabul-Kandahar Highway by armed men. However, law enforcers entered the house from the gate and the sit-in was formally initiated. As the protesters were on their way from Kabul to Ghani and armed insurgents picked them up at sand dune section of Ghazi district of Jashore province. Protesters thus blocked the way to parliament and shouted slogans. "The illegalities are continuing and the government is taking no action," said the protesters. They said the way to parliament would be blocked. (More on P.29)

President Blames IS for Deadly Bombing

KABUL. — Afghanistan's President Ashraf Ghani blamed the Islamic State (IS) group for a suicide blast that killed at least 35 people outside a bank in Kandahar city on Saturday in what the Taliban claimed responsibility for. "Since the 1990s, IS has become the biggest and most dangerous terror network in Afghanistan," said President Ghani. "We cannot allow such a group to spread its influence in our country."

Dr. Najib Sawabi, a former health minister, said that the country was facing a serious economic crisis and that the Afghan government was struggling to fight corruption. "We are facing a serious economic crisis," he said. "The government is working hard to fight corruption and tackle the issue of drug addiction."

President Ghani also blamed the Taliban for the deadly blast in Jalalabad. "The Taliban are responsible for this attack," he said.
