Senators Blast Government over Insecurity in North

KARUL - Expressing deep concern over increased insurgency in northern Afghanistan since the start of the Taliban’s spring offensive, members of the Senate’s Upper House (Upper House of Parliament) warned Sunday that several northern areas are on the verge of collapse.

The senators, at a session on Sunday, raised the issue of 400 Chechen families who had moved to the Central Asian countries and were being given resettlement aid by the United Nations, and the Taliban’s attempts to disrupt peace efforts.

They called on the security agencies to deploy additional troops to northern areas.

Meanwhile, the Senate’s Foreign Affairs Committee has been asked to send a delegation to Kabul to discuss the situation.

Outlook Horoscope

Libra (Sept 23-Oct 22)

You are determined to clarify your goals and establish priorities that guide your future. Like other signs, you might find yourself torn between keeping up appearances and being true to yourself. You are in a lucky mood today, and you might be more receptive to the advice of others.

Scorpio (Oct 23-Nov 21)

You are full of vigor and energy today. Your mind is sharp and you are quick to pick up on details. You are likely to be more social and outgoing today.

Virgo (Aug 23-Sep 22)

It is not that hard to trust your logic today, but you may find it harder to trust your intuition. You are more likely to be analytical and critical, which can be helpful in some situations, but it may also lead you to overlook other important factors.

Capricorn (Dec 22-Jan 19)

You should not have to worry about your finances today. You are likely to feel more secure and stable in your financial situation. It might be a good day to make some financial decisions or work on your budget.

People's expectations are as high now that you can't possibly deliver on all of the demands being placed on you. Although you could come through with flying colors, you still may be afraid of disappointing your critics. Someone in particular might push you too hard and your natural response is to simply push back.
Afghanistan’s Financial Sustainability

With Afghanistan’s national revenue generating lagging, Afghanistan is continuing to rely on foreign donors for the years to come. Due to its recent political and economic instability, the country has been forced to sacrifice substantial gains in wealth and financial assistance needed to sustain its budget deficit problem by soliciting international aid payments.

According to the International Monetary Fund (IMF), Afghanistan’s economic forecast shows that the country is facing unprecedented challenges. The country’s economic growth rate is predicted to be 2.5% in 2023, which is significantly lower than the previous year’s 4.2% growth rate. The country’s government is facing a severe fiscal crisis due to the ongoing conflict and the inability to generate enough revenue from domestic sources. The country’s debt-to-GDP ratio is projected to reach 60% by 2023, which is a cause for concern. The country’s debt-to-GDP ratio is projected to reach 60% by 2023, which is a cause for concern.

In addition, Afghanistan’s Central Bank (ACB) recently announced that the country’s foreign reserves had fallen to $2 billion, down from $6 billion in 2021. The ACB attributed the decline to the ongoing conflict and the worsening of the country’s economic situation. The country’s government is facing a severe fiscal crisis due to the ongoing conflict and the inability to generate enough revenue from domestic sources. Despite these challenges, the country’s government is determined to continue its efforts to improve the country’s economic situation. The government has announced plans to increase its focus on the development of the country’s agricultural sector, which is a significant source of income for the country. The government has also announced plans to increase its investment in education and healthcare, which are crucial for the country’s long-term development. The government is also working to improve its relations with international partners, particularly with the United States and the European Union, in order to secure additional financial assistance for the country.

In conclusion, Afghanistan’s financial sustainability remains a major concern for the country. The government needs to take urgent action to address the country’s economic challenges and to ensure that the country’s long-term development is not compromised.

Education – A Panacea for Afghan Women

By Hazratullah Zazai

Education is one of the main ingredients of human development. It is the key to unlocking the potential of individuals and societies. Education empowers people with the knowledge and skills to build a better future. In Afghanistan, where education has been severely limited due to conflicts and instability, the importance of education cannot be overstated.

Education has the power to break the cycle of poverty and to empower women. In Afghanistan, where women have been historically marginalized, education provides a pathway to equality and empowerment. 4th Sector Line

A sad and vivid war is unfolding, with the ceasefire violations, which are witnessed with increasing frequency and intensity, causing significant civilian casualties and displacement. The situation is deteriorating rapidly, with reports of公然 violations of the ceasefire agreements.

The situation in the region is precarious, with the prospects for a peaceful resolution of the conflict dimming. The local and international community is calling for a peaceful, negotiated settlement to end the suffering of the people and restore stability to the region.

The international community is urging both sides to abide by the ceasefire agreements and work towards a peaceful resolution. The United Nations and other organizations are providing assistance to those affected by the conflict, including humanitarian aid and political mediation.

The situation is complex, and there are multiple factors at play, including historical grievances, territorial disputes, and political aspirations. The international community must work together to find a lasting solution to this conflict.

In conclusion, the ceasefire violations indicate the need for increased efforts to achieve a peaceful resolution. The international community must continue to support the efforts of the parties involved to end the conflict and bring peace to the region.

Please let me know if you need any further information or assistance.

Sincerely,

No Military Solution to Migrant Crisis: UN Chief

ROME - UN Chief Jan Kubis urged Europe to re-think its military solution to prevent thousands of migrants from reaching the European Union (EU) by sea. Kubis said the 200,000 migrants who have tried to reach the EU this year is more than 750 migrants dead. Last month, a shipwreck off the Libyan coast resulted in more than 400 migrants lost. The European Union (EU) has agreed to provide €1.5 billion in military aid to help the coastguard.

Kubis, in an interview with La Stampa newspaper, said the military solution is no solution to the tragic loss of life in the Mediterranean.

"What is crucial is to have a global and coherent approach that takes into account migrants and refugees, the security and human rights of migrants and refugees, and..." the United Nations (UN) "must be involved in mediating these tensions between the EU and other countries," he said.

Senators Ask Govt to Celebrate April 28 with Zeal

KARBL - Some Mazar-i-Sharif or upper house members on Sunday condemned the 1996 military coup, known as the State Revosion, overthrowing President Mohamed Daud Khan’s rule and asked the incumbent government to officially observe April 28, the Mazar-e-Sharif’s Victory Day. Back in 1996, a former Soviet Union-dominated People’s Democratic Party of Afghanistan (PDPA), which had sympathisers in the then Afghan military, deposed President Daud Khan in a bloody coup.
Daud, who took over from King Zahir Shah and ended monarchy in 1973, declared himself as the first president of Afghanistan. He was killed in the PDPA-led coup along with his family members, but a majority of Afghans did not accept the PDPA’s rule and won.
