Regional Cooperation Needed to Counter Threats

KABUL - The Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MoFA) on Tuesday said Afghanistan had been suffering from acts staged by non-state actors and the country was concerned about emerging threats in the region.

MoFA's Spokesman, Ahmad Shahil Mustafa, told reporters that foreign ministers of Islamic countries had already condoned terrorism's acts in Afghanistan and announced their support for peace talks.

The 42nd meeting of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) was held last week in Kabul in which participants discussed various issues, including Afghanistan and emerging threats in the region. Also recently, a tilaka conference adopted a resolution praising the Afghan government efforts for a stable and peaceful Afghanistan. The resolution condemned terrorism and sought international efforts to achieve an enhanced peace and stability in Afghanistan and the region.

Mustafa said Afghanistan and regional countries were aware about new threats posed by the Islamic State (IS), while Afghanistan always fought against terrorism on the front line and restored peace in the region.

The spokesman also praised Pakistan to take decisive action against IS. Mustafa said, "We haven't abandoned Afghanistan. We are here for the Afghan people and the Afghan government. This year, we will spend some $500 million in aid to Afghanistan".

The spokesman expressed hope that IS would be defeated sooner or later, and that Pakistan wouldn't desert the war-torn country. Mustafa added, "We're a member of the organization, and it's a great honor for Afghanistan. We encourage the people of Afghanistan to take part in the peace process."

(1) Regional Cooperation...

The Arab cooperation process used to be a series of bilateral or group dialogues and conferences among the Arab League and its member states. It was designed to lay the foundations for Arab unity and to address the political and economic challenges facing the Arab world. However, the recent developments in the region have led to a significant shift in the approach to regional cooperation. The Arab League has now moved towards a more inclusive and comprehensive framework, aiming to address not only political issues but also economic and social challenges. This shift has been driven by the need to address the root causes of conflict and instability in the region.

(2) Civilian victims...

The report highlights the severe humanitarian consequences of the ongoing conflict in the region. Thousands of civilians have been killed or injured, and many more have been displaced. The lack of access to essential services, such as healthcare, education, and water, is a major concern. The report also underscores the need for international support to ensure the protection of civilians and to provide assistance to those affected by the conflict.

(3) Security Council...

The United Nations Security Council has been called upon to take decisive action to address the situation in the region. The report calls for the immediate cessation of hostilities and the implementation of measures to protect civilians. The Council has a crucial role in ensuring that the international community upholds its commitments to support the efforts of the states and organizations working towards peace and stability in the region.

(4) Zaatari refugee camp...

The Zaatari refugee camp in Jordan has become a symbol of the humanitarian crisis in the region. The camp is home to thousands of displaced Syrians, many of whom have fled their homes due to the conflict. The conditions in the camp are challenging, with limited access to basic services and healthcare.

(5) Financial estimates...

The report presents financial estimates related to the humanitarian crisis in the region. These estimates highlight the scale of the needs and the financial resources required to address the humanitarian crisis. The financial estimates are based on a comprehensive assessment of the humanitarian needs and are designed to guide donor countries and organizations in their fundraising efforts.

The report concludes with a call for urgent action to address the humanitarian crisis in the region. It emphasizes the importance of international cooperation and coordination to ensure that the needs of the affected populations are met.
