US to Partner with Afghanistan to Defeat Terrorists: Obama

WASHINGTON - President Barack Obama said his country would partner with others that Afghanistan and Nigeria to build a defensive network against terrorist attacks and to combat terrorism.

"We will continue to partner with nations, from Afghanistan and Nigeria, to build up their security forces. We’re going to build a day and night with allied and partners in the defense networks and combat attacks on security forces in ISIL cells that may be trying to develop into other parts of the world," Obama told reporters in a meeting on Monday afternoon. "We’re going to build up their security forces and that will be the responsibility of nations and countries around the world, including here in the United States. And they are targeting Muslim communities around the world. Numerous individuals have been arrested across the country for plotting attacks or attempting to join ISIL in Syria and Iraq," he said.

Obama said ISIL’s recent losses in both Iraq and Syria and peace that ISIL can no longer be defeated. "Indeed, we’re increasing our efforts against ISIL because we believe that if ISIL is able to continue to target the oil and gas facilities that lead to much of its mobilization," he said.

"We’re going to defeat the ISIL leadership and infrastructure in the heart of ISIL’s heartland and put a dent in the people around the world. Partnering with countries that share our commitment and are fighting against ISIL, we are going to build up their security forces and that will be the responsibility of nations around the world, including here in the United States. And they are targeting Muslim communities around the world. Numerous individuals have been arrested across the country for plotting attacks or attempting to join ISIL in Syria and Iraq," he said.

Kabul Delegation Meets Taliban for Peace Talks

Kabul, Afghanistan - A delegation of Afghan leaders, including Hikmat Khalifat, the political deputy of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MoFA) and Dostum, visited the Taliban leadership in Qatar to discuss the possibility of direct peace talks.

The news of the visit in Doha came as a positive development for the Afghan government, which has been negotiating with the Taliban for a peace agreement.

On Tuesday, the Afghan government delegation reached Doha to hold talks with the Taliban leadership. The delegation is led by Dostum, a key member of the Afghan government.

Industry Leaders Frustrated after Two Months without AISA Leadership

KABUL - After two months without a new director appointed for the Afghanistan Investment Support Agency (AISA), the country’s only ombudsman, that’s become a source of frustration and concern.

Mr. Khanem, the Afghanistan Independent Industrialists Association (AIIA) President, said he is frustrated with the delay in appointing a new director for the AISA.

He said that the delay has helped to delay the economy of Afghanistan since the agency’s functions have been lifted, but the delay would have a positive impact on the economy.

Mr. Khanem said that the delay in appointing a new director for the AISA has caused a lack of economic progress and that the government should take action to improve the situation.

Tackling Unemployment in Afghanistan

By Ewaz Ali Bahrami

Every rural household dreams of skilled Afghan labourers gathering in the roads and creating an environment of employment for the youth. Afghan labourers are the backbone of most of the households in the rural areas of Afghanistan. They work in various sectors such as agriculture, construction, and services. However, the current situation in Afghanistan is challenging, with high unemployment rates among the youth.

Young people have always been considered as the backbone of society and the future of a society highly depends on the potential of its youth. If they are motivated towards the improvement of society, it is very important to create jobs for them, which will stimulate their economic growth. However, unemployment is a significant problem in Afghanistan, and it affects the youth, who are the future of the country.

The lack of employment opportunities is a major concern for the Afghan youth. The World Bank reported that the unemployment rate among youth in Afghanistan is around 35%. This is much higher than the global average of 6.7%. The high unemployment rate is caused by various factors such as the war and political instability.

In Afghanistan, the 6th of the Taliban in 2011, millions of Afghans are jobless, and the government has to provide them with the necessary job opportunities. The government has to work on creating a healthy and stable environment for the young people to live in. The government should provide job opportunities to them, which will help them to build their future.

In conclusion, the government should focus on creating job opportunities for the youth in Afghanistan. This will help the youth to lead a productive life and contribute to the country's development. The government should work on improving the economic situation of the youth and provide them with the necessary resources to build their future.

(US to Partner...)

For the first time in 25 years, the United States and Pakistan have announced that they will work together, all nations are going to war.

The US strategy, he said, was to "go on the offensive" and to use "all available means" to stop the Taliban. The US has already released billions of dollars to support the Afghan government, and it is expected to increase its support further.

The US and the Taliban have been in negotiations for years, but the talks have been unsuccessful. The Taliban have demanded the withdrawal of all foreign forces and the recognition of their government. The US, on the other hand, has demanded the complete surrender of all weapons and the surrender of all foreign fighters.

(UN Security Council...)

The UN Security Council has adopted a resolution that calls on all countries to support the peace process in Afghanistan.

The resolution calls on all parties to the conflict to respect the rights of women, children, and civilians, and to ensure that humanitarian aid can reach those in need.

MoF Admits to Failures in Tax Collection as Billions of Afns Remain Missing

KABUL - Legal issues in Afghanistan’s tax collection system have caused a number of obstacles that have led to an increase in tax collection from small and medium-sized businesses. Ministry of Finance (MoF) officials said on Monday that the MoF three large companies alone owed roughly 15 billion Afns in back-tax to the Afghan government.

Collaborating with the Afghan government, the MoF has taken steps to reduce the amount of tax that the companies owe. However, according to the MoF, although the three companies have paid their taxes, the Afghan government has yet to receive the full amount due to technical issues in the tax payment system.

HA Decision to Back IS Shocks Balkh Activists

MAZAR-I-SHARIF - Civil society activists in northern Balkh province on Tuesday said they were deeply concerned about the Gunbad Helmandi, a Marshallian National Alliance (MNA) leader who was taken into custody by the national militia after he called for the release of the two soldiers who were arrested last week.

The MNA accuses the national militia of targeting him and his family members. The activists are calling on the authorities to release the two soldiers and ensure their safety.
