Significant Number of Terrorists Coming from Your Countries

President Ghani also warned that the terror groups are looking to destabilize the region and add that the terrorists do not have any political issue with the government of Afghanistan.

"Without the complete understanding of the terrorism phenomenon, it would be difficult to eliminate it from the region," President Ghani said.

He also added that the issue of terror-related cultivation, processes and struggle is one of the other main issues being faced by the region. President Ghani said the strugglers are getting over from the struggle of narcotic which forms a chain and financially support the terrorist groups through criminal activities. (KZ)

You're often the first one out the door in the morning, but you might prefer lingering over breakfast today. Yourティンズ may have you wanting to stay home, but don't be fooled. The country's the place to be. However, you could find yourself more bored than overwhelmed the way the idea is marketed to you. You can have a lot of fun without that much effort. The art of living is a wonderful thing. You'll be more productive if you allow yourself to relax. You may want to work on new projects or try out new ideas. You may also consider trying out a new hobby or taking up a new sport. You may want to work on new projects or try out new ideas. A number of senior members of the Islamic State group have been killed in Afghanistan in recent weeks, including the most recent death of the group’s former deputy leader in eastern Nangarhar province across Afghanistan. According to officials at Afghanistan’s intelligence agency, the National Directorate of Security (NDS), Habibullah Shabani, a leader of the Islamic State group, died on Sunday from injuries sustained during a firefight with Afghan forces in the Nangarhar province. Shabani, along with other senior militants in a drone attack in eastern province of Nangarhar. The Islamic State’s leadership in Afghanistan had been severely dented by recent violence against the group. The killing of the Islamic State leader in Nangarhar province is a result of the continuing efforts of the Afghan security forces and Afghan forces fighting against the Islamic State group. The Islamic State group had recently lost a key leader in the Afghan south, Hafiz Ahmad Shinwari, who was killed in a drone strike. The Afghan government had accused the Islamic State group of launching a series of attacks in northern and eastern provinces of Afghanistan.
