Socio-Political Consciousness

It is important for a human being to be well aware of the society wherein he is. He needs to have such consciousness because it would be possible for him to understand his role, status, rights, and responsibilities. In this way, he would be able to play a positive role in society.

Socio-political consciousness is not one of the qualities that exist within human instinct. It has to be developed within him through proper nourishment and education. Sociology plays a very important role in this regard. Children who are born in a society do not automatically become a part of the society of the world. Especially in today's society, where the people have become very much mechanized and situation is unfavorable to children and are very much in conflict with the social and political groups. Social isolation is widespread among young. It is extremely difficult for him to understand such situations. In such a scenario, it is really important that children are socialized appropriately and motivated to realize that the society in which they are living is of great importance and they have a responsibility to develop their socio-political consciousness.

Family can play a tremendous role in this regard. As family is the first socializing condition, it is expected that the family teaches the children various values and beliefs, the attitude, manners, thinking and ideas that are developed in the very beginning of life are really very difficult to forget. Parents who are always conscious of this fact that by making their children responsible and socializing them, they contribute to the family members make them realize how they can create synergy and social awareness, and how they can develop themselves as citizens of a country. Today's younger generation, who has a strong sense of responsibility, trustworthiness, and social responsibility can be developed through socialization in the family. It is really important for all the families to be educated about the responsibilities of their children. Children are really basic and vital; therefore, it is really important that the institutions of family must be used to the maximum extent in order to spread the same kind of political consciousness.

Schools, colleges and universities can also play a tremendous role; but ultimately it is the overall society when the individuals get their education and experience the socio-political role. Therefore, they begin to acquire everything from the society. There are certain ways that can be adopted within the societies by the individuals to develop this kind of socio-political consciousness.

One of the most important steps in this regard is to have the awareness to play a role in the society and develop socio-political consciousness; which is actually the main attitude that can have a tremendous role in this regard. An individual who is aware of the responsibilities of his role in the society can have a better position in the solutions of conflicts within the community or society. People who try to avoid socio-political consciousness can be called.DEJ.

However, such an attitude would help them be a responsible being. Apart from the resolution of the conflict, an individual must realize that the role he plays, the influence he has in society is immense and he needs to play an active role in the conflict and help bring himself back to the society.

For being socially aware it is necessary that an individual should have an active participation in the society. It is also necessary for an individual to have the courage to judge others and their actions as per the demands of justice or not as per their social status, appearance or wealth. He needs to understand what the basic rights of the human beings are and how he can become responsible in his role and duties towards the society. He needs to analyze the social and political decisions in the society on the basis of justice, not on the basis of criteria like status.

An important way of achieving socio-political consciousness is to have some information about the society around. It is important for an individual to know about the social issues and events and try to play a role, no matter how small, in their resolution.

It is definitely easier to live a healthy life and always be able to come to one's own source. However, it is really important for socio-political consciousness to create a sense of balance between his comfort and the world he is living in. It is also important that an individual should not be a part of the group of people who always run away from society, but should try to be in touch with others to come to such conclusions. It will also develop a sense of tolerance among others.

Showing compassion and empathy can be an important part in getting the other side of the story. For example, the pain of others when people are hurting and understanding their pain is really important for the overall development of the society. Social awareness and responsibilities are also necessary in this regard. It is also important for an individual to bear some social responsibilities in order to define his role in society. This, in turn, will develop a sense of tolerance toward others.

Nevertheless, it should be kept in mind that the boundary between what is social and what individual should never be violated as it is not possible to separate these two aspects from each other. In this regard, “every citizen is responsible for the development of the country” can be applicable.
