Durand Line Permanent Afghan-Pakistan Border

KARUL - The United States recognises the Durand Line as an international border between Afghanistan and Pakistan, the State Department said on Thursday.

Two days back, former president Hamid Karzai had refused to recognise Durand Line as a permanent border between the two countries. He insisted the border had to be widened. Karzai's remarks are in line with the position taken by successive Afghan governments over the decades. The 240-mile border was established in 1893 following an agreement between Sir Mortim er Durand, a representative of British India, and Khan Abdul Rahim Khan, Addressing a news conference in Washington, State Department spokesman John Kirby said "We don't have any new policies with respect to the borders of Afghanistan."

Asked if the US recognised the Durand Line as the final border between Afghanistan and Pakistan, Kirby replied: "It's the recognised border, and we recognise the borders of Afghanistan." [Pulskar]

Most of the problems we encounter on daily accounts are caused by the reception and dissemination of the message of the quasid and the quasid and to suit the ideological purpose of the government. Conclusively, efforts have been made in the past to extend the influence of the quasid on the public. However, this situation is further worsened by the fact that the quasid and the quasid are widely misunderstood. The purpose of this paper is to show how the quasid can be interpreted as the root cause of the current situation.

There has been a widespread belief among those who do not understand quasid that the quasid is a tool to control and manipulate the population. This belief is not without foundation as the quasid has been used in the past to achieve various political objectives.

The quasid is an entity that has been created by the government to serve its own interests. It is not a true reflection of the population's needs and desires. The quasid has been used as a weapon to control and manipulate the population.

The quasid is not a natural phenomenon. It is a tool that has been created by the government to manipulate the population. The quasid is not a true reflection of the population's needs and desires. The quasid has been used as a weapon to control and manipulate the population.

Russia to Washington: Talk to Us over Syria or Risk ‘Unintended Incidents’

MOSCOW — Russia called on Friday for a direct military dialogue with the United States, warning it was preparing for “unintended incidents” if tensions continue to rise. Moscow’s top diplomat was responding to reports that Western officials said Moscow is building up its military presence in Syria, threatening the United States with a direct military confrontation.

The United States is heading a strong international campaign to stop/.. air strikes against Islamic State targets in Syria, and a German defense analyst is considering the prospect of a diplomatic or military confrontation with Russia. He will be accompanied by a delegation from the Syrian Foreign Ministry.

But Moscow supports the government of Assad, while the United States says its presence makes the situation worse.

Russia has more than 30,000 troops deployed in Syria, including 10,000 in the Damascus region alone. The United States has more than 2,000 troops in Jordan, northern Iraq, and the neighboring countries. The two countries have been at odds over Syria for years.
