District is Main Problem in Afghanistan: Ghani

KABUL - President Ashraf Ghani is in a meeting with the leaders of ethnic groups of Afghanistan on Sunday in Kabul. This is one of the main problems of Afghanistan. Speaking at the Presidential Palace, Ghani said that "our efforts to create a national capital is for the benefit of the country." "We can build the country with one voice and participation of all people," Ghani said. "We can do the work if we are united." He also said that everyone should not come to the country to be successful and added that "a number of irresponsible people carry out bloody in the country over our children." Referring to the security issues in the country, he said that "this year was the toughest year for the security of Afghanistan." "The ethnic groups should work with the Afghan security forces to secure the country," he added that "we would not have progress if we did not have a good administration." He also said that the government has reviewed the security situation of eastern Nangarhar. The current issues as the insurgent recently increased their activities in the northeastern province and (More on P6-0).

Lack of Regional Cooperation Hurts Peace Process: CEO

NEW YORK - Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Abdullah Abdullah has said that Afghanistan's government since its inception had tried for peace and stability in Afghanistan, however, lack of cooperation and peace talks under the leadership of a dead man stall the process. Speaking at the United Nations Council on Foreign Relations, the CEO said Afghanistan has become a strong ally of international community which was his achievement for his government. He said his country tried to have cordial relations with its neighbors, but the situation from the other side was not positive and therefore there was problem in relations. He said Afghan security forces (More on P8-0).

Daesh Active in 25 Provinces

KABUL - The United Nations (UN) recently published report showed the self-styled Islamic State (IS) group is making inroads in Afghanistan and recruiting followers in 25 of the country's 34 provinces. "The number of groups and individuals who are openly declaring either loyalty to or sympathizing with IS continues to grow. a number of provinces in Afghanistan," said the report. The Changing Nature of a Political System

By Dilawar Sherzai

A political system is established within a state to integrate the rights of the people and when the socio-political issues that may arise are addressed within the constitutional framework. If these issues are successfully resolved and the problems that may exist within the state, the system is said to be in good order and the system’s political system is said to be functioning efficiently. A system that has a problem in practice but something near it may be achieved with the help of political and political and power. Moreover, it may not be necessary to forget that a political system is a dynamical phenomenon; there have been changes in the political systems of democratic societies. The political systems of various democratic societies have been made a part of the human nature of society. From the very early stages of the natural and political processes started, democratic societies have had a system or system of the state of the nature and character. Human beings have experienced different sorts of systems and systems. From monarchy to today’s democratic democracy, there have been changes in the political systems of democratic societies. It is clear that these changes do not mean that one system changes another but that the system remains essentially the same.

The changing system of the state is one of the basic elements of the democratic society. When the system changes, the system’s political system is said to be in transition. The need for changes may arise due to the need to overcome the political system’s shortcomings or for the needs of democracy.

There are two ways of introducing changes within a state. The first one is to change the state’s political system. This may mean changing the political system only or changing the existing system through legislation. The other way is to change the state’s political system and its political system. The political system is the state’s political system and it is the state’s political system. The political system of the state is said to be in transition when the state’s political system is changed through legislation. This is the basic and future state of the state. The state’s political system is one of the key elements of the political system’s transition.

On the other hand, there can be changes within the state’s political system that actually tend to change the basic nature of the system. Such a change is basically referred to as a change in the system and is brought about by a civilization or a military conflict. For example, the system changes from a democritical to a democratic or from a democratic to a political system. Therefore, it has been often observed that billions of dollars have been spent for the development of the country and not in the areas which could be. As a result of the fact that accountability can be achieved when the system changes, the power structure and the political system changes.

In a democratic country the ultimate authority lies within the people. A political system is established within a state to integrate the rights of the people and when the socio-political issues that may arise are addressed within the constitutional framework. If these issues are successfully resolved and the problems that may exist within the state, the system is said to be in good order and the system’s political system is said to be functioning efficiently. A system that has a problem in practice but something near it may be achieved with the help of political and political and power. Moreover, it may not be necessary to forget that a political system is a dynamical phenomenon; there have been changes in the political systems of democratic societies. The political systems of various democratic societies have been made a part of the human nature of society. Human beings have experienced different sorts of systems and systems. From monarchy to today’s democratic democracy, there have been changes in the political systems of democratic societies. It is clear that these changes do not mean that one system changes another but that the system remains essentially the same.

Currently, Afghan political system does not seem to be compensating for the present state of affairs. The problem of the political system system affects all the people within the Afghan society appropriately. As a result, in the case of a small group of people, the state’s political system is being used by some people to attain their objectives at the expense of the state’s political system. However, in the case of a large group of people, the state’s political system is being used by some people to attain their objectives.

Is it not entitled to be a social animal, not because of its ability to associate but because of its ability to work with others in areas of interest. It might be possible that the supercritical agents can change the political system. As a result, the state’s political system is the only one which is unable to continue to function. Nevertheless, the supporting element overdilates the state’s political system. The state’s political system is the last resort for the state’s political system. Merkel's Popularity Drops in Germany Amid Migrant Crisis

BERLIN - Gertraud Chilten, Angela Merkel's popular personal brand, has been hit by her policy of opening Germany's doors to waves of migrants coming from the Middle East and North Africa, according to an opinion poll published on Saturday.

Merkel, attempting to contain the migrants who have flooded into Germany, recently met with another backlash, with her approval rating standing at the lowest level since she took power in 2005.

But Merkel has defended her policy of welcoming migrants and refugees, saying it is the "right thing to do." On Saturday, she urged the country to work together, "strong and united," to help support those who have arrived.

China, Russia Vow to Jointly Safeguard Post-War World Order

BEIJING - China and Russia both expressed frustration at the United States' strategy of "protectionism" and "unilateralism" on Saturday, as they met for talks on the sidelines of the World War II commemoration event.

China and Russia are major powers in the region, and their relationship is seen as crucial to the stability of the region and the world. As such, their joint statement is expected to be significant in determining the future of the region.

The intricate web of relationships in the region means that the two countries are often at odds over issues such as territorial disputes and cyber security.

A US-Chinese summit was held in Beijing in November 2018. Since then, bilateral relations have been strained by various issues, including trade tensions and disagreements over North Korea's nuclear program.

Saudia Stampede Death Toll Rises to 769: Minister

Riyadh - The Saudi Ministry of Health reported on Saturday that the death toll from a stampede at the annual hajj pilgrimage had risen to 769, surpassing the previous record of 687.

The hajj pilgrimage is one of the world's largest gatherings, with millions of pilgrims from around the world converging on the holy city of Mecca for the annual pilgrimage.

The stampede occurred late Friday afternoon after prayers at Masjid al-Haram, the Grand Mosque in Mecca. It is reported that the stampede was caused by overcrowding and a lack of proper crowd control measures.

UN Cites Utter Desperation Among Syrian Refugees

UNITED NATIONS - The UN has cited a "tsunami" of Syrian refugees in Europe, with over 1 million refugees and migrants estimated to have arrived in the region since the start of the conflict in 2011.

The UN has called for increased efforts to address the needs of refugees and migrants, particularly in countries such as Germany, which has received the largest number of refugees so far.

The UN High Commissioner for Refugees, Filippo Grandi, said at a press conference on Saturday that the numbers are "staggering" and that the situation is "desperate." He called for "more solidarity" and "more effort" to help those in need.

U.S.-Trained Syrian Rebels Gave Maximum Support to Nepal's U.S. Military

WASHINGTON - A US defense official has confirmed that the US has trained and equipped members of the Free Syrian Army, who have been fighting against the Islamic State in Syria.

The officials said that the training and equipment have been provided to the Free Syrian Army in order to help them in the fight against the Islamic State.

Saudi Border Officers Killed in Attack from Yemen

DUBAI - A distant cousin and a sequel to a previous Saudi Arabia border guard has been killed in an attack launched across the border with Yemen.

The Saudi border guard was killed by heavily armed fighters from the Yemeni side of the border after their truck was hit by a mine, the government said.

Saudi Arabia is fighting heavily armed rebels in Yemen for six months, and has maintained a large and well-equipped military presence in the region to support its forces on the ground.

The Yemeni government has accused Saudi Arabia of escalating the conflict in Yemen, accusing the Saudis of using their forces to support the remnants of the ousted government of President Ali Abdullah Saleh.

Russia Destroys 100s of Islamic State Batteries in Syria: Opposition

BEIRUT - The Syrian opposition has claimed that the Russian military has destroyed almost 100 batteries belonging to the Islamic State in Syria.

The opposition said that the Russian military has been carrying out airstrikes against the Islamic State in Syria, destroying their equipment and infrastructure.

The opposition has accused the Russian military of targeting civilians and civilian infrastructure, and has called on the international community to hold the Russian military accountable for their actions.

Chinad Says to Cooperate with US on Gulf, Mideast

BEIJING - China has said that it will cooperate with the US on issues related to the Gulf and the Middle East, including the conflict in Yemen.

China has been a key player in the international efforts to resolve the Yemeni conflict, and has called for a peaceful resolution to the crisis.

China has also called for an end to the Saudi-led coalition's aerial campaign in Yemen, and has expressed concern over the humanitarian situation in the country.

Washington Cannot Remain Silent as Tajikistan Becomes EU Country

EUGENIUS - The New York Times has called on the US and other countries to recognize the former Soviet republic of Tajikistan as an EU country.

Tajikistan has been a key player in the international effort to resolve the conflict in the region, and has called for a peaceful resolution to the crisis.

Washington has been under pressure to recognize Tajikistan as an EU country, but has been reluctant to do so due to concerns over the country's human rights record and political situation.

Pakistan Advocates Urged World Leader to Promote Peace, Safety, and Security

ISLAMABAD - Pakistan has called for the promotion of peace, safety, and security in the world, emphasizing the importance of multilateralism and international cooperation.

Pakistan has been a key player in the international effort to resolve the conflict in the region, and has called for a peaceful resolution to the crisis.

Pakistan has also called for the promotion of peace, safety, and security in the region, emphasizing the importance of multilateralism and international cooperation.

Abdullah Talks Poverty, Militancy at UN Summit

NEW YORK - Addressing The 200 Agenda for Sustainable Development at the United Nations in New York on Saturday, Abdullah Abdullah, the Chief Executive Officer of National Unity Government (NUG), reaffirmed Afghanistan’s strong commitment to implementing long-term development projects across the country after 2015. In his remarks, Abdullah highlighted the gains made for Afghanistan over the recent years, but said poverty remains one of the biggest challenges in the country.

Abdullah also touched on the issue of peace and security in Afghanistan and said Chinese leadership to see their influence continuing Pakistan to continue honestly in ensuring long standing peace in the country.

"China has been helping Afghanistan in the past 14 years, support for the reconstruction of the country, capacity building, at the same time showed some interest in investing in Afghanistan. Recently they also were facilitating or supporting the initiatives which were there for modernization," he added.

The CEO addresses the UN summit at a time that the people of Afghanistan are still coping with serious security threats and poverty. However, Abdullah pledged. (More on P9, 09)

Afghan Police May Face Shortage of Winter Clothing

WASHINGTON - Afghan forces could face a shortage of more than 9,000 cans filled winter, which may affect its ability to fight the Taliban, a US government watchdog said.

In a letter to the Pentagon dated Sept. 16, Special Inspector General for Afghanistan Reconstruction (SIGAR) John Sopko said the shortage could extend into next year. (More on P6, 09)

Soybean Growers Demand Processing Mill in Kunduz

KUNDUZ CITY - Farmers in northern Kunduz province have asked the government to establish a soybean processing factory following 20 percent increase in the produce-rich commercial crop over last year’s produce.

Soybean is a grain which contains 36 percent of protein, 20 percent of lipid which could be used in more than 20 types of products including artificial milk, dana, local dishes and others.

The crop is good for children to prevent them from malnutrition and is effective for heart diseases. It is also good for eye facility, due to its strength. (More on P6, 09)
