MSF Nurse Gives Harrowing Account of Airhost Air Strike

KABUL, August 25 — MSF nurse Bibi Anhman, who was killed in the Kabul airport air strike on Sunday evening, has given a harrowing account of the attack.

You're sitting on the pins and needles today — you're probably not thinking about the feelings you want to share. Although you may be feeling a sense of relief today, you may still have a few nagging feelings. Olympic surprises can be a great experience for you, but they can also be stressful. Perhaps your feeling of relief is because you're not yet ready to share your emotions. But don't keep your emotions bottled up. It's not healthy for you to keep them to yourself.

Great teacher shows qualities such as patience, kindness, and understanding that are essential for a teacher to succeed in their role. A teacher must not only be knowledgeable and experienced in their field of study but also possess certain qualities that differentiate them from others. These include patience, understanding, and kindness. These qualities are particularly important in the field of education, as teachers are responsible for shaping the minds of their students.

Patience is a crucial quality for a teacher to possess. Students come from different backgrounds and have different learning styles and paces. Some students may need more time to understand a concept, while others may grasp it quickly. A patient teacher will take the time to explain and re-explain a concept until the student understands it. This is important for the student's success and future learning.

Understanding is another important quality for a teacher to have. A teacher who understands their students can relate to them on a personal level and create a more positive learning environment. Understanding also means being aware of the different challenges students face, both academic and personal. A teacher who understands these challenges can provide support and guidance to help students overcome them.

Kindness is another key quality for a teacher to possess. A kind teacher is approachable and empathetic, which creates a supportive and positive learning environment. Kindness also means treating all students with respect and fairness. A teacher who is kind will create a safe and inclusive classroom where all students feel valued and respected.

A great teacher will always strive to improve their skills and knowledge, both in their field of study and in the art of teaching itself. They will continuously seek feedback and be open to new ideas and approaches. A great teacher will always be willing to learn and grow, which is essential for success in any field.

In conclusion, great teachers possess a combination of qualities that make them exceptional educators. They are patient, understanding, kind, and always looking for ways to improve their skills and knowledge. These qualities make them valuable assets in the world of education and essential for the success of their students.

Ruling the World with Non-Violence and Love

By Dilawar Sherzai

Since 2007, according to the United Nations General Assembly resolution A/RW/125/17, 2 October of each year is celebrated as the International Day of Non-Violence. The International Day of Non-Violence commemorates the birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi, pioneer of philosophy and strategy of non-violent resistance. The International Day of Non-Violence is observed to support the principle of non-violence and the principle of love. It is marked to remember the teachings of Gandhi and his principles of non-violence.

In general, violence is a means to achieve one's goals. But non-violence is a more peaceful way to achieve one's goals. Non-violence is not just about avoiding violence, it is about using love and compassion to achieve one's goals. Love is a powerful force that can change the world.

Violence is a tool of the weak. The strong use love and compassion to achieve their goals. Non-violence is a way of life that does not harm others. It is a way of life that is based on love and compassion. Love is the most powerful force in the world.

Non-violence is not just a philosophy, it is a way of life. Non-violence is a way of life that is based on love and compassion. Love is the most powerful force in the world.

In conclusion, non-violence is a powerful force that can change the world. It is a way of life that is based on love and compassion. Love is the most powerful force in the world.

Life Returns to Normal, Kunduz Residents Come out of Hiding

MOSCOW - Russian forces will intensify strikes on the positions of extremist groups in Afghanistan and launch new offensives against the Afghan military official said.

"We will not only continue conquering our adversaries, but will also neutralize their infrastructure," Andrei Katayev, deputy chief of the General Staff of the Russian Armed Forces told reporters.

The prime targets are IS command posts, military production and explosive depots, communications, and IS workshops to produce weapons and militants training camps, he said.

The military has carried out more than 72 strikes and has managed to neutralize about 13 tiny bases of terrorism within the district, he said.

Russia’s aircraft have carried out more than 30 strikes and have destroyed 50 secret explosive depots and communications, the air chief said.

The military has managed to neutralize about 200 militants and captured IS fighters.

"The measures taken have been aimed at creating a base of terrorism and significantly reduce their combat potential," the official said.

In an interview with the Interfax news agency quoted Katayev as saying: "He added that Russia’s forces have captured IS fighters and destroyed some IS training camps.
