Syrians Need Peace, from Wherever it Comes!

By Muhammad Rasool Shah

It was not surprising when the Russian intervention in Syria brought mixed reactions. There is some criticism on this act and in the end, there are also a number of voices that see hope in the peaceful settlement of this bloody war. The first and foremost reason is the horrible time expansion of Syrian war. In the beginning, it was thought to be a propro-government move and the operation of Allied forces concluded successfully in a few months. It was expected that the coalition of a formal Syrian army might hinder the process for a couple of years. However, information and evidences that large numbers of Syrian armed forces were fighting the forces of government has been confirmed. In the area of Aleppo, it was hoped that the resistance of Syrian forces would not be too much problematic. However, the situation deteriorated when the regime gave birth to so many unexpected problems. It was not thought that the government forces would keep stretching for years and years. The way these forces were helped and provided with necessary weaponry and training in the beginning by Allied powers resulted in their initial success and brick movement towards Damascus but the prevalence of the Russian intervention changed the war scenario. Some of the groups that were expected to win the war with Russian and American-led anti-

Anti resistance forces. It was a great trial to the whole operation of removing Assad from power. With the passage of time, the condition got worse and large numbers of groups were formed in which intentions of many were unknown. Some of them were not the same as the others. The situation got worse when fighting indirectly strengthened the Assad forces. It looked that the situation was in favor of the Syrian government. The groups that were formed with the money of their taxpayers. These groups turned to an anti-military move, and, of course, they were not always ready to be friendly to each other.

This complicated situation of warfare resulted in the death of more than 300,000 Syrian civilians. The blame of war did not limit itself to the people, and the war became as an end to all middle East in the end. Even the safe counties of Lebanon and Syria are in danger of being affected by this war.

Wide support is received from the whole world (Hindustan group of ISS). In the beginning, it was a part of Jihadists that were found and sponsored in the form of various groups. But this condition changed when some of the main alliance of the government forces, which were formed by the passage of time, got strong and more power and then they started to show the area of their control. With the leadership of the Islamic state, the Islamic state started to extend the control to the east. That is what happened. The Islamic state was not directly involved. France to Agree Aerospace Deals with Saudi Arabia

PARIS—France and Saudi Arabia are about to agree big military contracts, where French Prime Minister Manuel Valls said the kingdom on Tuesday, sought closer ties, to the monarch said on Sunday, “The Middle East is a region of tension and confrontation, and we are going to fight it together.”

One source said that if the agreement was closed it would be agreed with Saudi Arabia. Another source said that there would be a military contract. Another source said that the French government would negotiate a defense agreement with Saudi Arabia.

The trip to Saudi Arabia, which is the first official visit by a French president to the kingdom, is part of a tour of the Gulf region. It has raised hopes of improvement in relations between France and Saudi Arabia.

The trip was seen as a sign of growing French support for the kingdom, which has been a key ally in the international coalition fighting against the Islamic State in Syria and Iraq. France has also been working to improve relations with other Gulf states, including Qatar, which it has long been at odds with.

The agreement would be a significant step forward in relations between France and Saudi Arabia, which have been strained in recent years due to differences over issues such as human rights and the Islamic State. The agreement could also help France to assert its influence in the region, where it has been seeking to mediate between the parties in conflicts such as Syria and Yemen.

France has been particularly concerned about the rise of the Islamic State, which has carried out attacks in France and other European countries. The agreement could also help to bolster the French military presence in the region, which has been reduced in recent years due to budget cuts.

The agreement would also be a sign of the growing importance of the Gulf region for France, which has long been a major player in the region. The country has close economic and political ties with many Gulf states, and has been active in efforts to promote stability and development in the region.

The agreement could also help to improve France's image in the region, which has been damaged by its military actions in the past. France has been criticized by some states in the region for its support of the Islamic State and its role in the Syrian conflict.
