"Because it is a very good step, it is actually a step forward," Dostum said, adding that "if their activities are coordinated with the government, they will be helpful otherwise they will not succeed." These statements came after unconfirmed reports emerged that the Taliban were paying to government contractors to control the Logar Jirga - a council used regularly for local issues. However, the council members refused to comment on the issue.

"We have chosen the way of cooperation between the 70 years of the UN experience and the mainly Afghan people. But more importantly what it recognises is that they can do nothing through its capacity to work with Afghanistan," he told an event in Kabul recently. "More on Polt.-"
True Spirit of Democratic Protections

It is really imperative for all the active and vigilant citizens of the state to have a positive role in the society. However, in order to benefit from political initiatives, the people must be aware of the challenges they face. Awareness regarding the social and political developments in society would definitely assist them to a great extent and they would be a catalyst in bringing about vital changes.

Within the political system, one can bring changes both through political awareness and political activism. Political awareness involves gaining knowledge about the nature, functions, and influences of the political system from them and utilizing it practically in promoting the government or other political institutions and groups to change their policies or their functioning.

Political activism, on the other hand, is the act of being a part of a citizen in a democratic system and taking part in the change. The political activists believe that the values of being violations or certain policies of the government are not being fulfilled. They can be seen on the streets and their voices are readily heard. However, it is not always possible to know if their actions can lead to any positive change.

The 70th anniversary of the Afghan National Army (ANA) on November 9, 2015, is an important event that marks the history and development of Afghanistan's security forces. The ANA is a vital component of the Afghan government's efforts to maintain security and stability in the country. The event was attended by military and civilian leaders from various countries, including Afghanistan's President, Ashraf Ghani, and other dignitaries. The celebrations included a parade of military vehicles, live music, and speeches from top officials. The event was a testament to the Afghan National Army's commitment to protecting the security of the country and its citizens.

The Afghan National Army has played a crucial role in the country's post-war reconstruction efforts, providing security, and ensuring peace and stability. The ANA has faced numerous challenges, including training and equipping soldiers, dealing with insurgent groups, and combating terrorism. The Afghan government has made significant investments in the ANA's infrastructure, equipment, and training programs to improve its effectiveness.

The Afghan National Army has also played a critical role in the country's national security and defense. The ANA has conducted successful operations against terrorist groups and insurgent forces, helping to protect the Afghan people and maintain peace and stability in the region. The Afghan government is committed to continue its efforts to strengthen the Afghan National Army and ensure its success in maintaining security and stability in Afghanistan.

As part of the 70th anniversary celebrations, the Afghan National Army organized various activities, including a military parade, a cultural festival, and a ceremony to recognize the contributions of the Afghan National Army to the country's security and defense. The event was an opportunity to honor the sacrifices made by the Afghan National Army and to thank the soldiers for their service in maintaining peace and stability in Afghanistan.
13.5 Mn People need Protection, Humanitarian Assistance in Syria: OCHA

GENEVA - The United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) said on Friday that 13.5 million people were in need of some sort of protection or humanitarian assistance in Syria. The figure represents an increase of some 1.2 million people since the beginning of this year. "Over the last 10 months, according to OCHA, humanitarian needs in Syria have remained highly concentrated in a few districts where some 11 million people live in hard-to-reach areas, meaning that the UN has been unable to reach only a small fraction of those as a result of persistent violence, insecurity, human rights violations and infrastructure destruction," the agency said.
