14th Prime Ministers' Meeting of SCO

The Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Abdullah Abdullah attended the 14th prime ministers’ meeting of the Shanghai Co-operation Organization (SCO) in China on Friday and Wednesday, where Afghanistan participated as an observer country, and the CEO was able to have some important talks about the situation in the region.

The SCO summit was basically founded in 2001 by the leaders of China, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Russia, Tajikistan, and Uzbekistan. Afghanistan was given an observer status at the 2012 SCO summit in Beijing, China. The talks were held both in person and virtually.

The talks were led by the prime ministers of the participating countries, where the leaders discussed the current situation in Afghanistan and the region.

The meeting was attended by the prime ministers of China, Russia, India, Pakistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Uzbekistan. The meeting was held in a virtual format due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

The prime ministers discussed various issues, including security, trade, and economic cooperation. They also discussed the ongoing fight against terrorism and the need for regional cooperation in addressing the challenges.

The meeting was a significant event in the region, where the leaders agreed on the need for continued cooperation and coordination among the SCO member countries.

A human rights violation is a matter of concern

A number of Sunday India and Pakistan rights are significant both for the country and its people. Rights include freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from discrimination, civic and political rights, and protections for women, children, and minorities. Freedom from discrimination is one of the most important rights that need to be protected.

The current situation in Afghanistan is very challenging. It is a matter of concern for the international community.

The meeting was an important opportunity for the prime ministers to discuss the ongoing challenges in the region and work towards finding solutions.

A Project of Peace and Stability

By Abdul Ahad Bahrami

Essentially, there are three decades since it was last post-conflict. The Afghan peace and stability project is a decisive opportunity for the Afghan government to make a meaningful contribution to the region's stability.

The Afghan government has been historically challenged by political instability and internal conflict. However, the current situation is different in many ways.

The Afghan government has made significant progress in recent years, including in terms of economic development, security, and political stability.

The project aims to address the root causes of conflict and promote peace and stability in Afghanistan and the region. It will focus on promoting economic growth, reducing poverty, and improving the living standards of Afghans.

The project will be implemented in coordination with the international community, including the United Nations, the World Bank, and other donors.

The project will be a significant step towards achieving lasting peace and stability in Afghanistan and the region. It will require a sustained commitment from all stakeholders, including the Afghan government, the international community, and the Afghan people.

The Afghan government needs to work closely with the international community to ensure the success of the project.

The Afghan government must make a genuine effort to engage with all stakeholders, including the Taliban, to achieve a lasting peace and stability.

The Afghan government is committed to working towards a peaceful and prosperous future for Afghanistan and the region.

Daesh Growing in Afghanistan, Campbell

KABUL - Analysts and military officials say Daesh has expanded its presence in Afghanistan, particularly in the eastern provinces of Nangarhar and eastern Kunar, where it has established a presence in recent months.

The expansion of Daesh in Afghanistan is of concern to the United States and other international partners, who have been working to disrupt the group's operations and prevent it from establishing a foothold in the region.

The U.S. military has increased its focus on counterterrorism operations in Afghanistan, with a particular emphasis on targeting Daesh.

The situation remains fluid, and it is unclear what steps the international community will take to address the threat.
